

CASE STUDY

Organizational Development

[bu:st] executed consulting with an executive management team.

THE PROBLEM

- The three-person management team was stretched very thin. All individuals wore many different hats throughout the week with no redundancies in place.
- With the new 988 program on the horizon, the organization was not scalable for sustainable growth.

THE SOLUTION

- Identify potential improvements with the organizational chart.
- Support the organization throughout the implementation phase.
- Create a business case to support future planning.

THE RESULTS

By implementing the solution above, we:

- Created a new organizational chart, including detailed expectations and responsibilities for each individual role.
- Achieved higher tenure of staff through creating career opportunities.
- Created a robust business case plan for the next 5 years to serve as a basis for the operational budgeting plan.
- Analyzed the current situation, identified growth limitations, and implemented improvements.
